ABYSSINIAN SWORD LILY

(Acidanthera bicolor murielae)

The flowers of this plant possess a strong scent and the color is pure white with carmine violet blotches.

It is a new and remarkable introduction in bulbous plants.

These flowers may be found in the Abyssinian Mountains, up to 6000 ft elevation.

Its fragrance is reminiscent of Tuberoses, and it grows 3-4 ft stems. This plant is sometimes called "Hollandia"....

It is excellent for general gardening plantings...

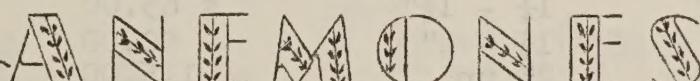

Also desirable for bouquet make-up.

Plant outside only.

Bloom and Plant like Gladiolus.
